COUNTRY CHILDREN.

Little fresh violets;
Born in the wild wood
Sweetly illustrating
Innocent childhood;
Shy as the antelope—
Brown as a berry—
Free as the mountain air.
Romping and merry.

Blue eyes and hazel eyes
Peep from under the hedges,
Shaded by sun-bonnets,
Frayed at the edges:
Up in the apple trees,
Heedless of danger,
Manhood in embryo,
Stares at the stranger.

Out in the lilly patch,
Seeking the berries—
Under the orchard tree,
Feasting on cherries—
Tramping the clover blooms
Down among the grasses,
No voice to hinder them,
Dear lads and lasses!

No grim propriety—
No interdiction;
Free as the birdlings
From city restrictions!
Coining the purest blood,
Strength'ning each muscle,
Donning health armor
'Gainst life's coming bustle!

Dear little innocents!
Born in the wild wood:
Oh! that all little ones
Had such a childhood!
God's blue spread over them,
God's green beneath them,
No sweeter heritage
Could we bequeath them!

POLITICAL.

Hon. Wm. H. Armstrong.—The Tariff.

We clip the following able remarks of Hon. W. H. Armstrong, upon the subject of the tariff, from the Congressional Globe of the 27th, and 29th of April. Mr. Armstrong, is a sound tariff man, and has spared neither labor, nor pains to advance the interests of the workingmen, of the whole Country, and the important and vital interests of our great and proud old State. His constituents will abundantly reward him for his able and manly efforts in their behalf. But let Mr. Armstrong, speak for himself.

Mr. Armstrong I offer the following amendment:

After the word "pound," in line three hundred and thirty-eight, insert the following:

Provided. That all iron bars, rolled or hammered, made wholly or in part from the use of charcoal as a fuel, shall pay an additional duty of half a cent per pound.

Mr. Chairman, I desire to call the attention of the committee to the fact that under the bill as it stands the better grades of foreign iron, made principallyin Norway, Sweden, and Russia, will come in under the same duties as the cheap Welsh and English bars. The bill makes no provision for the protection of the higher grades of iron made from charcoal as a fuel, and which are intermediate between ordinary bars of steel. Yet there is great difference in the cost of production. In my district the production is chiefly charcoal iron, and 'ts necessary cost is so great that it cannot live in competition if the market is to be stocked with foreign charcoal iron, paying no higher duties than those imposed upon irons made from mineral coal.

I have now before me the circular of prices for March and statements from the 3d of January last to the 16th of Apr. of two of the prominent iron dealers of New York. Swedish and Norway iron is quoted in March, and it may be taken as a fair average standard at the present time, at 7 cents per pound or $156 80 per ton, and English and Welsh bars of the same size are quoted at $80 per ton. Yet all these irons come in under this bill at the same rate of duties, or, in other words, iron made in Norway, Sweden, and Russia, and other places, with charcoal as a fuel, pays only the same duty as that made in England and Wales, with mineral coal as a fuel, the former worth in the market above $150 per ton, while the latter is worth about $80 per ton. The bill leaps at once from the cheapest make of iron to steel, while charcoal iron comes in between.

The great difference in the cost and value between the two kinds of iron is partly in the use of charcoal as a fuel and partly in the different modes of manufacture. The Welsh and English, as well as a large proportion of the iron now made in our own country, is made with the use of mineral coal as a fuel in the blast furnace, and afterward puddled or boiled with use of the same kind of fuel, and makes the common or cheap irons, while the Russia, Norway, and Swedes iron, as well as our charcoal iron, is made with the use of charcoal as a fuel in the blast furnace, and afterward refined and made into blooms with the use of the same kind of fuel, and makes the finer qualities of iron used for drawing into fine wire, plating into shovels, scythes, &c., and for the best rivets, bolts, horse-shoe nails, &c., and largely for making boilers and imitation Russia sheet iron. The great difference, as stated before, in the cost and value of the two is, first, in the fuel used. The charcoal necessary for making a ton of this iron costs now from $15 to 20 per ton, made up of wood lease, cutting, hauling, coaling, transportation, &c., while the cost of mineral coal per ton of metal will vary from $6 in the best locations to about $14 in those not so favorably situated. For refining with charcoal the fuel will cost not less than $8 per ton, while for the puddling or boiling, process the fuel will cost not over $2 per ton in favorable locations. The labor in refining charcoal iron costs at present about $9 per ton, while that of puddling or boiling the anthracite is about $6 per ton.

Nor is this all: in the refining with charcoal there is used from 3,200 to 3,360 pounds of pig metal to make a ton of blooms, a loss of about 30 per cent., while in puddling or boiling the loss is not more than 10 per cent., of the weight of metal. In refining 1 tons, or 3,360 pounds of metal, will give 2,460 pounds of blooms. In puddling or boiling 2,240 pounds of metal will yield about 2,000 pounds of rough bar iron, and in some instances, by the use of cinder, it is claimed that as much rough bar can be produced as the weight of pig metal used.

Norway, Russia, and Swedes iron is nearly all imported in large bars, the flats in bars from twenty-seven and a half up to four by one inch: the rounds, and square from three-fourths up to two inches. Inspection of this bill shows that the Norway, Russia, and Swedes iron comes in under the lowest rates, paying just the same duty as iron of the same sizes from England and Wales, worth very little over half. Protection to this class of iron is rendered more necessary from the fact that the railroad bars made in Russia and laid upon their roads have been found to be too soft to endure the wear of high speed and the heavy engines and trains now in use. As a consequence they are taking them up and relaying their roads with either steel or the hard rails of England. The Russian rails, being mostly charcoal iron, reach this country in large quantities, and are admitted as old iron. They are here cut into short lengths and are readily rolled into merchantable bars from a single heat, and come into direct and ruinous competition with the charcoal iron of the United States.

I hope the committee will agree to this slight protection which I ask for the large interests of my district and of the State of Pennsylvania generally. I propose a protection of only $11 25 per ton against a competition which bids fair to ruin many of the establishments of our State, and has already obliged some charcoal furnaces to go out of blast.

Mr Hoar. It seems to me, Mr. Chairman that the very interesting statement made by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. Armstrong] makes it proper that the Committee of Ways and Means should inform us whether there is any reason why the request of the gentleman should not be granted.

Mr. Schenck. I think that when the Committee of the Whole have struck down the tariff per ton from $33 60 to $22 40, with no more reason than has been shown for it, it is hardly probable that they intend to save these most important interests. It seems to me the proposition of the gentleman from Pennsylvania is most reasonable, if there is intended to be any distinction made between the better classes of iron and the lower.

Mr. Armstrong. I wish to call attention to the fact that the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. Logan] fell into an error of miscalculation in stating that in the second paragraph he proposed to reduce the rate of duty to the same as that in the first paragraph.

Mr. Logan. I did not say that.

Mr. Armstrong. The gentleman from Illinois stated that in the first paragraph a reduction from $22 40 to 20 had been made, which would be a reduction of 10 per cent; and he also stated that in the next paragraph the duty of $28 should be reduced to $22 40, to make it correspond with the previous reduction. The error of the gentleman's statement consists in this: that a reduction of 10 per cent. on $28 per ton would make the duty $25 20, not $22 40.

On the 29th of April, Mr. Armstrong, the tariff bill still under discussion, spoke as follows:

Mr. ARMSTRONG.—Mr. Chairman, it has been repeatedly stated in this discussion—yesterday by the gentlemen from Illinois [Mr. Logan] and his colleague [Mr. Ingersoll] and by many others, and reiterated this morning—that as the duty on pig iron has been reduced in committee to $5 per ton, a reduction of $2 from the bill as reported and $4 from the law as it stands, that other forms of iron more advanced should be reduced in like proportion. I venture to say that this reduction will not stand approved by the deliberate judgment of the House. The vote was taken on Monday, when some who had left on the adjournment from Friday till Monday were detained by the floods which interrupted travel and prevented their return. Nor does the vote give any reliable indication of the judgment of the House. There are 228 members on the roll. The vote in committee stood: for the amendment, 66; against it 64; or 130 votes; and 98 not voting.

Now, sir, I cannot believe that this injustice will be approved, and I venture to predict that the duty on pig iron will be restored to $7 per ton. Sir, Pennsylvania asks nothing she is not willing to concede. She urges and she sustains the protective policy, because she believes it to be a vital necessity not only to her but to all the interests of the country at large. The necessity of protecting iron is conceded, and the only question upon which the committee hesitates is what amount of duty upon foreign iron should be imposed. This is a question of figures and facts. Were the wages of labor in Europe and the United States the same, there would be no necessity for protection, and the question would resolve itself into one of revenue only.

The intrinsic value of a ton of iron, apart from labor, whether in pig or bar, or any of its ultimate forms of highest value, even to needles, watch springs, or watch screws, worth thousands of dollars by the pound, is only the value of the unwrought ores in their native bed; and every dollar of superadded value is labor.

Anthracite pig costs at the furnace, on a fair general average, about thirty dollars per ton. Of this there enters into it of

Ore 2½ tons, worth in the ground say 40 cents per ton	$1 00
Limestone, 1½ tons, worth in the ground say 4 cents per ton	07
Coal, 2 tons, worth in the ground, say 30 cents per ton	60
Lumber, oil, tallow, waste, fuel, &c, worth say	08
Total	$1 75

Or, to cover all possible items which may be reckoned as intrinsic, say $2 per ton.

Thus, in every ton of iron, at $30 per ton, there is not exceeding $2 of original value and $28 of labor, and every additional value which it takes to the highest uses of which it is susceptible is but adding labor to labor.

Estimating that which enters into the production of pig iron at an average of $2 per day, there is $28 of labor or employment for 14 men, at $2 per day for every ton produced.

It is too plain for argument that every ton of iron imported is therefore an importation of labor. Assuming ore leave abroad to be equal to ore leave here, and that a day's labor is equally effective there and here, every ton of pig imported is an importation of the labor of fourteen men, and just in the proportion of increased value in the higher forms of manufacture does the importation of labor increase.

If this labor were of equal cost we could successfully compete with foreign production. But happily it is not so. Our labor is not too dear, but theirs is much too cheap.

Without detaining the committee with a statement in detail of the wages in England, Russia, Norway and Sweden, the principal countries whose iron competes with ours, it is within limits to say that their rate of labor is less than half that of ours for similar wages. If, then, to further pursue my illustration, and admitting, for the argument, their rate of wages to be half that of ours, a ton of iron costs in the United States, for—

	Per ton.
Ores	$2 00
Labor of 14 men at $2	28 00
Total	30 00

It would cost in Europe for—

Ores at the same rate	$2 00
Labor of 14 men at $1	14 00
Total	16 00
Or a difference per ton arising solely from the difference in the cost of labor, of	14 00

The foreign producer thus starts with an advantage from low labor alone of $14 per ton. The freight, exchange, and insurance from ports in Europe to New York vary considerably at different times, but may be taken at a fair average of $6 per ton, to which add the premium on gold at present rates, 13 per cent., $2 14, making $8 14, which subtracted from the margin of $14, leaves him a net profit of $5 86 per ton, by which amount, except for duties imposed, he could undersell the American producer, in our own markets, on the first cost of American iron at the furnace, and this without reckoning anything for the reasonable profits of manufacture. As this difference arises solely from the difference of wages, it is necessary, in order to ascertain the market value of American iron, to add the cost of transportation from the furnace to the market.

That this statement, which, for the convenience of illustration, I have stated in round numbers, is sufficiently accurate, is shown by the last report of the Secretary of the Treasury. For the twelve months ending December 31, 1868, the total importation of pig iron was 241,150,777 pounds, making 107,656 tons. The total valuation was $1,740,294, or $16 16 per ton. For the twelve months ending December 31, 1869, the total importation was 350,541,370 pounds, making 156,402 tons. The total valuation was $2,517,160, or $16,90 per ton, giving an average for the two years of $16 53 per ton. Now, taking the average value of a ton of American iron as before stated, namely:

1 ton American pig iron and freights	$30 00
Deduct average cost of foreign iron as officially reported in gold	$16 53
Add premium in gold	$ 2 14
Freights, insurance, exchange &c	$ 6 00
	$24 67
Amount by which the foreign can be put in market less than than cost of American iron	$5 33
Add 12 per cent. profit on $30 00	$ 3 60
Lowest amount of tariff that will protect American producers	$8 93

It is thus plain that the American furnaces must go out without protection, or the wages of our men come down just in proportion as the duties are reduced. It requires a duty of $5,33 per ton to place our iron on a level with theirs, and at such rate there is not the least margin of profit to our producers. To invite capital there must be more than this, and at $9 duty per ton there would remain a profit of only $3.67 per ton to cover all the investment and all the risks of a business uncertain at the best, and always subject to the uncertainties of legislation, and the sure and formidable assaults of the free-trade league, and much too precarious to tempt the capital invested in importation from its much more remunerative employment.

Mr. Ingersoll rose.

The Chairman. Debate on the amendment to the amendment is exhausted.

Mr. Tillman. I withdraw it.

Mr. Mcgrew. I object.

The question was put on Mr. Tillman's amendment, and it was disagreed to.

Mr. Ingersoll. I move to amend the amendment by making the duty $12 per ton. Mr. Chairman, we have the spectacle presented to this committee of two great interests antagonizing each other. On the one hand you have 1,000,000 people interested as producers of iron; on the other hand, you have 39,000,000 interested as consumers of iron. Again sir, you have the producers of iron enlisted on the one side in this contest, and those interested in the construction of railroads on the other. Both interests I admit to be important. Both are entitled to fair consideration. But if one is to be utterly neglected and ignored at the expense of the other, I desire to protest against that. And I wish to proceed to give my reasons for the amendment I have offered.

FILL LAMPS IN THE MORNING.—Scarcely a day passes during the Winter months, but we read accounts of frightful accidents from kerosene lamps exploding and killing or scarring for life, women and children. A simple knowledge of the inflammable material of the fluid would probably put a stop to nearly all the accidents. As the oil burns down into the lamp, a highly inflammable gas gathers, over its surface, and as the oil decreases the gas increases. When the oil is nearly consumed, a slight jar will often inflame the gas, and an explosion is sure to follow, dealing with death and destruction. A bombshell is not more to be dreaded. Now, if the lamp is not allowed to burn more than half way down, such accidents are

An Explanation.

We notice that many of our exchanges are condemning without mercy the members of Congress who were absent, when the vote on Pig iron was taken. Among those mentioned as absent we find the name of our own member, Hon. Wm. H. Armstrong. We confess that it annoyed us somewhat, but it never shook our faith a particle in our able and efficient Member for the reason that we knew him personally to be sound to the core on the tariff question, and we knew that for the last fifteen or twenty years he had ranked as one of its boldest and ablest advocates in Central Pennsylvania. From these facts and for these reasons we were fully satisfied that if he were absent at the time that vote was taken the fault was not his, that he would be able to give a strong and well grounded reason for his absence. Indeed we remarked to some of our particular friends, that if Mr. Armstrong was absent when that vote was taken, sickness or some other Providential interference must have kept him away.

Now we are happy to learn that we had not over estimated our man; but that our surmises or rather predictions were true. The facts appeared in the Congressional Globe the next day but we confess we never saw them until last week. We give the explanation for the benefit of our readers and the numerous, warm and ardent supporters of Mr. Armstrong in this county.

As to the absence of Mr. Armstrong when the vote on Pig iron was taken it occurred thus, and if the Globe was more generally circulated, there would have been no explanation needed. The House adjourned on Friday, to meet on Monday. Friday night Mr. Armstrong went home, intending to return on Monday, or Sunday night, if possible; but to guard against possible detention, he paired with Archer, of Maryland, who was a decided and bitter opponent of the bill. The very fact of his taking the precaution to pair with Archer, shows how vigilant, and how faithful a public servant he is, and how much he has at heart the welfare of his constituents—the brawny men of the mountains, the iron nerved tariff men of the 18th district—the men who aided to conquer the slave-holders rebellion and who are now ready to crush the English Monster, free trade—and its minions the leaders of the Democratic party. Mr. Armstrong arrived at home on Saturday morning. On that day it commenced to rain. It rained all day and continued not only to rain but to pour all day Sunday. Monday morning Lycoming creek was so high that the bridges and railroad in many places were torn up, and the North Central train (the Baltimore train,) could not get in?

The water at Williamsport was up 17 feet and rapidly rising and there were reports that the trains could not get through. Mr. Armstrong was at this juncture strongly advised not to attempt the journey in this uncertainty, and the more particularly as he had taken the precaution to pair on the tariff. When we take into consideration these facts, will any sane or reasonable man condemn him for not leaving his family, and his large interests on the river, especially when a general inundation was threatened and no possibility of his reaching Washington in consequence of the bridges having been swept away.

During his absence from Washington Mr. Armstrong's friends paired him with Mr. Haldeman, not remembering that he had himself paired off with Mr. Archer, and thus it happened that his absence was in fact a gain of one vote for the bill.

We have written more than we intended and more perhaps than was necessary; but we felt it our duty to vindicate our member from the aspertions of those who seek to injure his fair fame and through him strike at the great Republican party. We are proud to chronicle the fact, that Mr. Armstrong, has not missed a single vote but the one in question, and that he has proved himself one of the ablest and most discreet advocates of the tariff in the present Congress.

Hon. Wm. H. Armstrong—The Tariff.

On our first page we publish extracts from two most excellent speeches delivered by our able member of Congress Hon. Wm. H. Armstrong. These speeches are being copied extensively all over the State, and receiving the highest encomiums of the entire Republican press. The Philadelphia Press in speaking of Mr. Armstrong's speech delivered on the 29th ult., says: "It is difficult sometimes to convince those who have not carefully studied the whole question that Pennsylvania, in her tariff-stand, asks protection, not for property or capital, but for labor. Mr. Armstrong, of the Eighteenth Congressional district, has put this point so well in his pungent speech of last week, in the House, that it is worthy of reprint as a political tract. The intrinsic value of a ton of iron, apart from labor, whether in pig or bar, or any of its ultimate forms of highest value even to needles, watch-springs, or watch-screws, worth thousands of dollars by the pound, is only the value of the unwrought ores in their native bed, and every dollar of superadded value is labor. Now, it is this superadded value—the value of brawn and muscle—which we of Pennsylvania are endeavoring to protect by a jealous tariff."

This same doctrine as the people of Centre county know, we have been preaching for the last fifteen years. It is labor not capital which needs protection. It is labor, more than capital which is benefited by a tariff. It is the laboring man, the mechanic and the farmer who are benefited by a protective tariff. The more furnaces, forges, rolling mills, woolen factories, or manufacturies of all kinds which spring up and prosper in a community or state, the more labor and the higher the wages for all; the better the home market and the higher the price on everything which the farmer has to sell. We know one farmer in Centre county who purchased a farm of two hundred acres from Gen. Jas. Irvin, and paid for it every dollar in long straw delivered at the Milesburg iron works. That farmer was once a free trader; but before he died he was soundly in favor of protection, and we have frequently heard him say, "If it had not been for the home market afforded by Gen. Irvin and his iron works I never could have owned my second farm. I made it so easy that I never felt it." Hundreds and thousands of farmers in Pennsylvania can bear testimony today to the same beneficial results to them, arising out of this doctrine of Protection to American labor. The men who advocate free trade, or tariffs for revenue alone, do not understand the question, are blinded by party politics, or are basely and wickedly misled and deceived by the hired mercenaries of England, in the character of leaders of the Democratic party.

A protective tariff benefits the whole community, the whole state, every state, the whole United States. In the language of a contemporary:

> Were we living in an obscure town, in moderate circumstances, and the opportunity were afforded us to aid in transforming the town into a large city, we would not hesitate an instant what course to pursue. We would argue that the prosperity of the town could not fail to benefit every individual in it. In a precisely similar manner we welcome the evidence of state and national prosperity. It is impossible to advance the interests of the mass without benefiting the integrals composing it. In other words, the advancement of a nation collectively, implies individual prosperity. The busy fingers of trade may be so fleet in their movements, as to defy the detection of the swiftest eye, yet the wire is not more responsive to the touch of a practiced hand, than the signs of prosperity which spring up on every side of the bye-ways of trade to reward the constant, active workers. It is a trite saying that God helps those who help themselves. We believe that if we would help ourselves, we must begin in the outset by summing up our resources. If we possess within ourselves everything needful in life, and sufficient to insure future prosperity, we hold that our next duty is to develope these. The farmer who borrows from his neighbor any portion of his products while his own ground lies fallow, pursues a suicidal policy; one that enriches his neighbor and impoverishes himself. Setting out upon this principle, there can be no question in our mind whether we should produce everything within ourselves or purchase from foreign countries—whether we shall provide in the future as in the past for our own laborers, or by dividing their just portion with foreign laborers, establish a fatal precedent imposing privation upon after generations—whether we will pay out native gold for foreign fabrics and trumpery, draining the country of the precious metals which make the world's coin or encourage the manufacture from our own products instead of furnishing foreign countries with the crude material—whether we will import more than we export, or vice versa. All of these questions we resolved years ago, and nothing that has transpired since, has furnished us the shadow of an excuse to change our views regarding them; on the contrary many things not necessary to mention, have confirmed and strengthened our convictions.

In Hon. Wm. H. Armstrong the people of the 18th Congressional district as well as the whole State have an advocate of Protection, of whom they may well feel proud. He is not only sound on the question; but he understands it in all its bearings, and has the ability and the manhood to defend it upon the floor of the House, as well as in every nook and corner of his district.

Union County.

The political campaign for the election of a State Senator, and county officers is about opening in Union county. The Republicans appear to be in good earnest and determined to redeem their Senatorial District. In speaking of the contest and the future of the party the Lewisburg Chronicle contains the following sensible remarks:

"Thus far, the names are those of good men; and we do hope that none but good men will permit their names to be used in that connection. Personally, we have but little choice. What we pre-eminently desire is that the offices may be filled by men of honor and brains—men who can not stoop to do a mean action. We have plenty of men of that sort in our party, many of whom recoil from the arena of politics because the ordeal through which they may necessarily pass may be revolting to them. These are the right kind of men; fill our offices with such men, and politics will be shorn of its objectionable features. But there are some men (and with sorrow we confess it) in our party, who are continually and eternally craving for office all the way up and down the scale, but who are so small that they refuse to pay even the printers' trifling bills, yet spend large amounts for liquors at corner groceries. These are the men who do more toward leveling the flag of our party than any other influence—much more than the Democratic party, for they are recreant members of our own political family. Of course, when such men succeed in gaining an election, we know that they can be bought for a very small price, and the credit of our party suffers. Men of that character, do please stay at home and disgrace only your own family and neighborhood."

The Five Great States.

If the House basis of 275 members of Congress should be adopted for the next ten years, Ohio will have 21 members, Indiana 12 and Illinois 19; total for the three States, 52 members. This is nearly one fifth of all the House. It is nearly equal to the number of members of the imperial States of New York and Pennsylvania, which will have 58 members between them. The five States lying side by side will cast 110 votes in the next House, or within 28 votes of a majority of the whole Union. There are thirty-eight States in the Union, but practically the political power in the legislation of Congress and in the election of President and Vice President, is in the five States we have mentioned—New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. United with the smaller States they will carry they will be irresistible. It is probably safe to say that after 1880 a majority of all the people in this country will reside within their borders. They are the seat of American empire. Look at their present majestic populations:

New York	4,700,000
Pennsylvania	3,500,000
Ohio	3,100,000
Illinois	1,700,000
Indiana	1,700,000
Total	15,500,000

Here is a population within a million and a half of the whole population of the Union in 1850, 20 years ago.

For the Republican

EDITORS REPUBLICAN:—

I see by the papers that the County is in debt and borrowing money at 12 per cent. It appears from your quotation from the "Watchman" that this indebtedness is to save the "dear people" from paying their taxes past due. That sounds good, but to a fellow that has had the experience that has fallen to the lot of your humble servant "myself" the sound is an uncertain one. I have been for many years here under the rule of "Democracy" They valued my unseated land at ten dollars per acre.

After years of contention for equality, the commissioners put it at five dollars, which was thought to be about equal to other unseated land in the County. But Lo! a star of some magnitude from this tp., was elected to the office of commissioner. Whether it was to relieve his friends of many taxes or not, I cannot say, but two and a half dollars per acre was, by him added to the valuation of my wild land. after most of the valuable timber had been taken off. I probably ought to say that not being at home, and supposing, I would see by the paper when the tax was to be paid, I delayed payment until a few days after my land was sold for taxes, not over three days. I went immediately to the purchaser. The Commissioners Clerk offered him ten per cent right down on the money he had paid, but he refused, so I delayed payment nearly two years more. I thought I was badly treated.

But I bowed my back to the burden. I suppose I'll bear it. A few days ago I paid sixty-six dollars and a half tax for two years on 147 acres of the above mentioned land.

SOCIAL MORALS IN NEW YORK.

"What is a Christian?"

The trial, just closing, of McFarland for the murder of Richardson, the seducer of his wife, says the New York Observer, has made some revelations, peculiar and startling. It has brought to public observation and remark a state of social morals and habits, and a tone of sentiment in some quarters, that few, even of the well-informed, believed to exist in the heart of a Christian community. It was known to some that the free love school had among its pupils and friends many literary vagabonds, male and female, hangers on upon the skirts of the press and society, who get a precarious living by their wits, and spend what they get upon their lusts. But this trial of McFarland has unearthed a state of moral corruption more widespread and alarming than had been imagined hitherto. We cannot doubt that it will be of public benefit. If we cannot cleanse the city and the world of such a plague as is revealed, it is at least well for us to know that there are men and women in the midst of us teaching in our religious and our political papers, forming public sentiment, expounding moral principles, and professing to be the advanced leaders of social reform, who are also, and at the same time, undermining the whole social fabric, and introducing into social life among us such manners and customs as would make a city worse than Mormondom, and equal in depravity to Sodom and Gomorrah.

We recently copied into this paper extracts from two letters written by women of respectable connections and position, insisting that the wife should abandon her husband and become an actress on the stage. This trial has brought these letters to the public eye. But more singular still, would any one have believed that religious and moral newspapers, leaders of reform, would justify and applaud such letters, declaring there is nothing in them inconsistent with purity and propriety?

A murder trial has disclosed the act that these views are identified with great organs of that school of moral reform that reject the old-fashioned doctrines of the Gospel, and boasts of a more "liberal" Christianity. We have devoted considerable space in recent numbers of this paper to show that the Independent's idea of "what is a Christian" is not the Gospel idea, that it rejects the very gist and marrow of Christianity, and adopts as the essentials of Christianity only what a Deist or a Unitarian or Universalist consistently holds. Now this McFarland trial discloses the Independent's views of morality to be as defective as its ideas of Christianity. When pressed to define its theological position, the Independent copied the whole of our blessed Saviour's sermon on the mount, and triumphantly said, "That is our creed." In that sermon occur these words:

"It hath been said, Whosoever shall put away his wife, let him give her a writing of divorcement. But I say unto you. That whosoever shall put away his wife, saving for cause of fornication, causeth her to commit adultery, and whosoever shall marry her that is divorced, commiteth adultery.

It will be remembered that at the time of the killing of Richardson, and when the Astor House ante-mortem marriage was perpetrated, we called attention to the utterances of the Independent. Its teaching on the subject of marriage and divorce was abhorrant to our ideas of Christian morality. These were some of its words:

"To chain two human beings fast to each other's side, against the perpetual protest of galled and wounded human nature, is an offence at which angels weep. The great, indifferent public have no right to say, either on the basis of any statute law, or on the still deeper basis of any supposed religious tenet, that any two individuals man and woman, shall live together as husband and wife, against the protest of their own individual souls. Derived from whatever source, based on whatever foundation, sanctioned by whatever tradition, such a legalized tyranny is unworthy of a Christian civilization, shamefully preverts the fundamental teaching of Christianity, and destroys the sacred claim of religion to the reverence of mankind."

Now, compare those lines with the verse from the Sermon on the Mount, above: the Sermon is the Independent's creed, the passage just quoted is its practical application. This is its idea of morality. But the trial of McFarland has thrown additional light upon the subject. Oliver Johnson, one of the editors of the Independent, was put upon the stand as a witness for the prosecution. In his cross-examination, the following disclosures were made:

Q. Have you written anything about this case in favor of Richardson and disparaging to the prisoner. A. I have written some articles in the Independent and some for the Times.

Q. How soon after the occurrence did you write the article in the Independent? A. Perhaps a week.

Q. They were advocating the cause of Mr. Richardson? A. They were not.

Q. Which side were they on? A. They were not intended to side either way.

Q. But which way did they side? A. Well, if the truth was in favor of Mr. Richardson, they were on his side; they were intended to refute the published representations that he was a seducer: I did not believe him to be a seducer, and I wrote that.

Q. (Showing a letter) Is that your note? A. Yes, sir; this is my handwriting; the date of the letter and the postmark correspond.

Q. Where was it written from? A. At the Independent office.

Mr. Graham—Now we will see how a man of your age addresses a married lady. I would like to know your age before I read this note. About how old do you call yourself? A. I am sixty years of age.

Q. Then at the time you wrote this note you were about fifty-six. How much younger do you take Mrs. McFarland to be than yourself? A. I should think about twenty-five years.

The Court—I do not see that the contents of that note are relevant.

Mr. Johnson—I should like for it to come out.

Mr Garvin—No, sir.

The Court—The witness has been subjected to a very rigid cross-examination. If he wishes that note read it shall be read. Go on. It was read as follows:

"INDEPENDENT" OFFICE,
NEW YORK, 29th August, 1866.

My Dear Mrs. McFarland: Pardon me; I have been at home more than a week, and my promise to send you the Hardshell sermons has not been fulfilled. You will find them, however in the same envelope with this note, and I trust they will be blest to your spiritual comfort and edification.—They have been the means of converting a great many sinners of whom you are "the chief among ten thousand and one altogether lovely;" and" of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Before this reaches you, Mrs. Johnson will leave Shelburne, but I am sure she will never cease to remember with pleasure the summer spent there with you. Certainly I am not likely to forget the few bright days that I spent there.

I trust you will ere long come back to New York, and that I may not unfrequently see the light of your countenance. Yours cordially,

OLIVER JOHNSON.

The examination then proceeded:

Q. Was Mrs. McFarland writing for the Independent at the time you wrote this letter? A. She was.

Q. Had she been for a long time? A. Not long; she was not correspondent, but wrote articles for the children's department.

By the Court—She was so writing at the time you addressed this letter to her? A. Yes, sir.

Mrs. Calhoun was one of the writers on the Tribune; and the married woman whom Mrs. Calhoun entreated to leave her husband, and who did so and became an actress, was writing for the Children's Department of the Independent: and Oliver Johnson, its managing editor, was telling her that she is the "chief among"—but we will not report his words. The Commercial Advertiser puts it in these words:

"We here have the managing editor of a self proclaimed religious paper indulging in the most blasphemous language, and applying to a woman who was heartless, if nothing more, the scriptural term applied to Christ. We have nothing to do with the religious tenets of any one. We protest, however, against men who boldly disavow their disbelief in holy writ claiming to edit religious journals, and under this guise corrupting the foundations of morality and religion."

And this is the morality, is it, that comes of rejecting all creeds and taking the Sermon on the Mount as the Confession of Faith? Would to God they would here the Savior's words and keep them. If they would walk in the ways of his commandments and teach men so, they would not be exposed as now. But they show, as has been shown a thousand times before, that there is a logical connection between faith and practice, that the inner life of this whole set of reformers is what might be expected of their rejection of the vital doctrines of the Gospel.

Fanaticism is heat without light.—These philosophers and reformers have heat, but they have shut their eyes to the light. Some of them profess to be pious: all claim to be virtuous: but they call evil good and good evil. So the Mormons claim to be holy, and the Oneida communists to be perfect. But their righteousness is as filthy rags: very filthy, and virtue shrinks from their touch with unspeakable loathing.

Have we made our point plain? We do not propose a narrow creed and affirm that you must hold our creed or you cannot be a Christian.—We lay down no creed. We say the Bible, and the Bible only; but it must be the whole Bible; not two chapters, nor three, nor four: not a sermon of precepts, nor an epistle of doctrines; but the full Gospel, the core of which is the atoning sacrifice of Christ. And we hold that the rejection of the distinctive doctrines of the Gospel by the Independent, and the school it represents, is essentially the rejection of Christianity. We find the proof of it in its views of marriage contrasted with the "Sermon on the Mount" we find proof of it also in Oliver Johnson's letter to that erring woman whom, with a levity shocking to every instinct of a Christian, he addresses as "chief among ten thousand and one altogether lovely."

As soon as the old man made his appearance; three of the party, who were masked, seized him, presented pistols, and compelled him to deliver to them one hundred and five dollars he had in the house. They then thoroughly searched the dwelling, thinking they would find additional treasure, but without success. The robbers made their escape.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous, and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

ROSADALIS.

THE GREAT AMERICAN health RESTORER, purifies the blood and cures Scrofula, Syphilis, Skin diseases, Rheumatism, Diseases of Women, and all Chronic Affections of the blood, Liver and Kidneys. Recommended by the Medical Faculty and many thousands of our best citizens. Read the testimony of Physicians and patients who have used Rosadalis; send for our Rosadalis Guide to Health Book, or Almanac for this year, which we publish for gratuitous distribution; it will give you much valuable information.

Dr. R. W. Carr, of Baltimore, says:

I take pleasure in recommending your ROSADALIS as a very powerful alterative. I have seen it used in two cases with happy results—one in a case of secondary syphilis, in which the patient pronounced himself cured after having taken five bottles of your medicine. The other is a case of scrofula of long standing, which is rapidly improving under its use, and the indications are that the patient will soon recover. I have carefully examined the formula by which your Rosadalis is made, and find it an excellent compound of alterative ingredients.

Dr. Sparks, of Nicholasville, Ky., says he has used Rosadalis in cases of Scrofula and Secondary Syphilis with satisfactory results—as a cleanser of the Blood I know no better remedy.

Samuel G. McFadden, Murfreesboro', Tenn., says:

I have used seven bottles of Rosadalis, and am entirely cured of Rheumatism; send me four bottles, as I wish it for my brother, who has scrofulous sore eyes.

Benjamin Bechtol, of Lima, Ohio, writes, I have suffered for twenty years with an inveterate eruption over my whole body; a short time since I purchased a bottle of Rosadalis and it effected a perfect cure.

Rosadalis is sold by F. P. Green and Druggests generally.

JOB WORK.—Posters, Circulars, Bill Heads, Cards, Paper Books, Job Work of all kinds, neatly executed at the REPUBLICAN OFFICE, at reasonable rates.

IN TOWN.—R. M. Magee Co., Supt. has been in town for a few days. We understand he now has an office here provided by the Commissioners according to law.

1800—Our circulation is now 1800, and constantly increasing. Come one, come all, and join our subscription list.

Advertisers please notice the number of our circulation, and see the advantage in publishing your name in our columns.

LARCENY.—Some one has stolen our umbrella a very necessary article in wet weather. The thief will please return it to this office to save expense and trouble. He is known. In dry weather we don't need it, but must have it when it rains.

AHEAD.—Jacksonville affords three Sunday Schools. This speaks volumns in favor of the intelligence and piety of the people of this village and vicinity. Is there any other town in the county of the size of Jacksonville, which can boast so many Sabbath Schools? If so we would be pleased to hear from them.

CROPS.—From all parts of the country we learn that the wheat crop is looking exceedingly promising From present appearances we anticipate an abundant harvest. The warm rains of the last few days will make the yield of grass more than an ordinary crop. The apple, peach, plum, pear and other fruit trees are exceedingly full of blossoms, and if not injured by frost the yield will be unprecedented. This is, as we say, the fruit year, and we hope for the best.

BELLEFONTE.—There is not a town in our State that contains more enterprising men than Bellefonte.

The grading of the Allegheny St., toward the reservoir now commands our approbation.

This will be one of the many improvements that our town has undergone for the past few years. Ours is truly a mountain town but one that we can be proud of which commands the attention of all visitors in quest of pleasure.

SCHOOLS.—Summer schools are opening up through the country everywhere. This is an opportunity for people to educate their children. There are two or three such schools in Spring twp., and we find them scattered all over the country.

They present an opportunity for beginners in the profession to learn. We advise all persons teaching summer schools before they have any or much experience to study Wickersham's works on teaching; these are good works and should be in the hands of every teacher.

EDEN SEMINARY.—Unionville, Centre county, Pa. The fall term of this Institute will open July 25th, 1870, and continue in session ten weeks. Terms, $7 per term for tuition. Boarding and furnished rooms with light $5 per week. For further information address JESSE or EDITH CLEAVER, Fleming.

EDITH CLEAVER, Prins.
LOUISA A. WRIGHT. Preceptress, a graduate from the State Normal School, Wrightsville.

TOWN COUNCIL.—Our Borough fathers have aroused, at last, from their slumbers, and have determined to do something. Streets are being graded, a new bridge is to be built across Spring Creek from Lamb Street to the Thomas warehouse, the bridge across High Street is to be widened—the town clock is to be re-painted, and many other necessary improvements. It costs money to improve a mountainous town like ours.—We may therefore expect the taxes to increase, and also expect to hear Meek howling at the extravagance of the Radical Town Council. Poor Meek he would growl to be hung; but we can never get him to explain the frauds and thefts, and rascalities connected with the building of the new jail.

O'BRIEN'S GRAND CARAVAN AND MAMMOTH MENAGERIE.—This monster Show will be in our town, on Tuesday, the 17th inst. People who have a desire to see the wonders of nature as developed in the Animal Kingdom should without fail visit this mammoth show on Tuesday next. One of our exchanges—a reliable good paper—in speaking of this collection of animals, birds, &c., says: "Our citizens are to be favored with an opportunity of visiting this Monster Menagerie, which for extent and variety rare and subjugated beasts and beautifully plumaged birds cannot be surpassed in this or any other country. Mr. O'Brien has for several months been engaged in fitting out one of the most complete and varied collections of the animal kingdom, ever placed upon exhibition purely moral in its tone and teaching, announces that there will be no circus performance allowed with it, thus affording all a chance of visiting the richest collection of singular and picturesque marvels of animated nature. Conveying the most awe-inspiring and wonder-evoking illustration of creative wisdom seen on the earth since the days of Noah. Connected with this Menagerie are three elephants, a herd of camels and 28 massive dens of savage and subjugated beasts and beautiful birds. As a free evidence of the vastness of this Caravan and Menagerie all are respectfully invited to witness the grand procession on the morning of the day of exhibition, where Eastern and regal pomp of elephants, camels, tableaux cars, chariots, animal dens completes a vision, words cannot convey. Remember the day, Tuesday, the 17th inst.

THE BIRDS.—The birds are here—the robin, the blue bird, the swallow, the thrush, the sallad bird,—these harbingers of Spring are with us. They are arriving daily and by thousands. It may not prove uninteresting, says the Altoona Tribune, to our readers, just at this time, to know something of the rapidity with which these welcome visitors can come and go from this to warmer climes. It is said that the common bird hawk, although it is not generally known, has by far the swiftest flight, of any bird that visits the Middle States, and probably of any other known, at present, throughout the world. Its passage through the air is so rapid that it is said, by experienced Ornithologists, to fly, when on full wing, at the rate of one hundred and fifty miles an hour, or nearly twice as fast as the swallow, which is, usually, set down as the swiftest of the feathered tribe. The falcon, probably, comes next in the order of speed and endurance; as one which escaped from Fountainbleau, in France, on one occasion, was found, twenty four hours afterwards, at Malta, a distance of fifteen hundred and thirty miles. Taking into consideration the fact that this bird does not fly in the night-time, that whole distance was accomplished at an average of seventy-five miles an hour. The crow, which is about the slowest and laziest of birds, will, nevertheless, make a distance of twenty-five miles an hour, and the robin and black bird will easily accomplish forty miles in the same time, when they are engaged in making their regular tour, and fly in a straight direction. The ease with which all birds can accomplish the distance between northern and eastern climes, when they make their periodical visits, is astonishing. Degrees of latitude are crossed, not in days, but in hours, and the bobolink that warbles his sweet notes here at the rising of the sun, may hide his head under his wing in the evening, and go to sleep among the rice plantations of the Mississippi. Railroad trains are left far in the rear, and the wing that cleaves the air, in the speedy transit, is almost as tireless as the panting locomotive. The partridge, pheasant, and some other birds that spend their winters as well as their summers here, are known to be exceedingly swift on the wing, but as they do not fly far at a time, and make a regular migration, there is no means of ascertaining the distance they might perform inside of sixty minutes.

PEBBLES.—A preacher should be a teacher, and not a scold. His mission is to enlighten men's minds, to teach people to do right for the sake of right, to instruct men to serve God, because He is God. Instead of abusing men because they are sinners, the minister should show them how to be freed from sin and made just before the Judge. A sermon should be an exposition of some particular portion of the Holy Writ, and not a hortatory discourse to be tacked to any verse in the Bible.

Men are not slow to take credit to themselves for all the good deeds they may perform; but when they do evil they immediately look about for some scape-goat upon which to cast the burden of their guilt. This is not only unmanly, but it is a double sin.

A Christian should never suffer himself to become irritated. He should never permit the Evil One to get the advantage over him so greatly as to induce him to commit sin. Because, whenever we grow irascible, we greatly please our worst enemy and do just what he would have us do.

While the dress does not make the man, it must be confessed that it materially effects the estimate his fellow mortals put upon him. So in all our public discourses we should array our thoughts in habiliments that will enhance their beauty and attract the attention of all who hear us.

We should always remember that temptation is but an opportunity for committing sin, and not a cause necessitating action. Nor does it lessen our moral guilt one tittle, that, when we do wrong we say somebody tempted us. The drunkard tempts the liquor seller and the liquor seller tempts the drunkard. No body offers linen coats for sale in mid winter, because nobody wants them; and no one will offer liquor for sale after men cease to drink it. The temptation is mutual, both the rum seller and rum drinker are sinners; but the sin of the one will in no wise mitigate or palliate the sin of the other.

As misery is produced by sin and as the effect cannot cease so long as the cause exists, it follows as an unavoidable conclusion that true happiness cannot be expected as long as we continue in sin.

THE MITTEN.—As we sat in our Sanctum on last Saturday evening, about 10 o'clock we heard a strange noise outside our window. We approached the window in order to see what the cause might be, when we discovered a youth of about 19 summers, leaning against the brick wall, apparently meditating suicide. We could not hear all he said, but we caught the following. Our young ladies should be careful how they "mitten" young men of tender years.

"The bull dog barks on the top of the hill,
And the lambs are skipping in glee,
And I'm sad as the dickens—I am—
My gal gave the mitten to me.

Ah, where will I go, and what will I do?
I feel like a crazy bum bee;
By thunder I'll fight! I'll lick any boy
That says the word mitten to me.

I'm realy mad—be dogged if I ain't!
I swear I will kill any she;
I'll slather and slosh—I'll murder that gal—
By thunder! she shan't mitten me!

No, I won't do that—I'll spite her—I will
I'll hang myself on a big tree;
And then she will cry—she'll die in remorse
For giving the mitten to me.

For the Republican.

MESSRS EDITORS.—Excuse me for asking a little space in the Republican, for a few choice epithets—a few vulgarisms "Liar, fellow, falsifiers, particular liar, this liar, this fellow, Prince of Liars, lying human fraud, guerrilla. Lying Kline, slanders, traducers, malicious lie, sneaking lizzard, puppet."

These are but a few of the many, which we might select, and where do you think we found them? You will no doubt be astonished when we tell you we selected them all from one little article in the National, that paper which advertises itself in the Potato Pamphlet as "A high-toned, first class Republican paper devoted to Helpful hints for happy homes &c., and Our Sunday School Work."

We shall not ask you to degrade your plebeian columns with an answer to such low scurrility but out of the respect we bear the stockholders of that paper and in justice to them I wish to state that I never made use of the language attributed to me. As to the writer of the article in question I shall not insult my race by mentioning his name.

Yours Truly, H. O. KLINE.

COMMOTION.—What has caused this great commotion in your town, said a gentleman from the country, to us the other day. What has gone wrong with the hotels? We asked with what hotels? There is nothing wrong, we can assure you, with the Brockerhoff House, for we, by special invitation, partook of a magnificent dinner there on Friday last—just the kind of dinner that Messrs. Housea1 & Krom are celebrated for getting up, and which has made their house such a complete success,

We had no reference to the Brockerhoff, said our friend, I know that house has no superior in town or country; but I had especial reference to the Cummings House. What have you to say for it?

We remarked that hitherto we have had a very high opinion of Billy Hosterman, the good natured landlord of the Cummings, and it is our custom to condemn no man without a hearing. But, interrupted our friend, "Billy" has left the house—run away, absolutely run away—leaving myself and many of my fellow farmers stuck, to the amount of $30. $40. $50. and some as high as $80. Would you not condemn him for this? That would depend entirely upon circumstances. First, we would be convinced that he has run away, and second, we would not condemn until we were certain that he did not intend to pay his debts, and had been planning to run away and cheat his creditors for some time past. This we do not believe; but we may be wrong. We do know that many a good honest fellow is crushed to the earth, when if he had any chance, any mercy or leniency shown him by his creditors, would weather the storm, pay all his debts, and live to be a useful citizen, a blessing to his family and an honor to society. So you see my friend that it is not best to be too hasty in forming opinions of our neighbors.

There is something wrong at the cummings House. W. J. Hosterman, has left town and the Sheriff, our friend Jas. H. Lipton who bailed Mr. Hosterman for the rent, are we understand running the House for the present. How the affair will end, or whether our farmer friend and other creditors of Mr. Hosterman, will get their money we cannot say.

PENNSYLVANIA STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.—The Annual Convention will be held at Harrisburg, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 14, 15 and 16. Geo. H. Stuart. Esq., is expected to preside. Each Sunday school in the State is requested to send two or more delegates, Pastor and Sunday-school workers are also invited to attend and participate. It is requested that the names of those who expect to attend shall be sent to Rev. Thomas H. Robinson, D. D., Chairman, or John M. Sayford, Esq., Secretary of the local committee of arrangements at Harrisburg, on or before the first day of June, so that places of entertainment may be provided.

Secretaries of country organizations are requested to immediately send their address to the State Secretary, Lewis D. Vail, Esq, 703 Sansom Street, Philadelphia, so as to receive printed details. Where there is no organization, the Secretary wishes to correspond with some earnest Sunday-school worker, and requests that his or her name be forwarded to him.

It has been discovered by the citizens of Bellefonte, that the place of all others in this town to select the best Boots & Shoes, Groceries, and a thousand other useful articles is the popular establishment of Burnside & Thomas.—This popular store is daily thronged with their numerous customers, to get their spring and summer supplies.—There are two palpable reasons for this popular store of Burnside & Thomas, you can always rely on the articles you purchase. They never misrepresent an article, and never deal in spurious and inferior merchandise. Their wonderful low prices for first class articles of merchandise have much to do with their large trade.

TROUT.—Our town people have been drawing from the beautiful waters of Spring Creek plenty of trout all speckled and nice. Go in folks, trout save ham and steak. These beautiful warm rains make the pretty little fellows bite. Frank P. Green is the champion fisherman of this town, if we are to judge from his success in the art.

GARDEN SEEDS.—If you want a nice garden; if you want a good garden; if you don't want to be deceived by worthless seeds; if you want good and pure seeds, true to name, call at the Book Store of J. D. Miller, Post Office Building, and purchase C. W. Lambert's Sunny Side Garden Seeds, or order by mail. Address, C. W. Lambert, Bellefonte, Pa. All seeds sent postage paid.

COMPLETION OF THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.
GREAT RUSH TO STERNBERG'S.
Sung to the Tune of Yankee Doodle.
The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And now comple connection's made,—
An enterprising notion.

The mighty work at last is done,
So speedily and brisk, oh!
And now in ten days we can run
From here to San Francisco.

No more we take the ancient route,
The stage, a horrid slow thing;
It banged the passengers about,
And wore out all their clothing.

CHORUS, for the end of each verse:
The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. STERNBERG,
A most delightful notion.

Through passengers by the Pacific Railroad will call at the store of A. Sternberg, before starting, and provide themselves with a complete outfit of the elegant and substantial Spring and Summer Clothing, the very best assortment of which will always be found at A. Sternberg's Store.
People who travel by other routes, and also people who, instead of traveling by any route at all, prefer to stay at home, can find the most superior and reasonable garments, for every occasion, of every variety, and at the lowest prices.
Do not fail to call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere; if you do not, we are sure you will be sorry that you did not. Our goods are put down to the lowest figure. We sell whole suits, according to quality,
RANGING FROM $6.50 TO $18.00
—the very best.

☞ The Rare Gems from the Rich Treasury of Nature in this Superb Display of UNIQUE ANIMALS AND BIRDS, make it the most Magnificent Gallery of Wonders, and the Richest Collection of the
SINGULAR & PICTURESQUE MARVELS
OF THE
ANIMAL KINGDOM
Ever combined in One Exhibition.

Mr. JOHN O'BRIEN, the Proprietor of this vast and comprehensive Menagerie, deems that his private interest combines with the Public welfare in making his Menagerie richer in general attractiveness than any that have heretofore been before the People, and he considers that in this, as in other business matters, the man who does best for himself, also does best for his countrymen.

Mr. O'Brien has made his Menagerie a repository of the WONDERS OF NATURE,
And environed it with such rules to govern the Entertainments that it will easily excel all contemporary concerns in attraction and in respectability, and he is determined thus, it shall win an enduring reputation for superiority and excellence. To achieve this, he has expended a large sum of money, far greater than any amount ever known to be invested by any company in the same vocation.

All Patrons will find that this Menagerie is exactly in keeping with this practical age, which demands substance and not pretence.

THIS IS PURELY A MORAL EXHIBITION
And Eminent Divines have not thought it Beneath the Dignity of the Pulpit to call attention to this GRAND SCHOOL OF NATURE!
And who claim that it is a real necessity to cheer and refresh the mind, which more often starves than the body.

The Circuses of the present day have ceased to be attractive to the Public, or possible to their owners, unless they have for their principal features a small number of inferior animals, and this weak combination neither pleases or satisfies those who patronize such mixed affairs, for the simple reason, that the association of animals with Circus Performances is so antagonistic and imperfect in details that it is impossible to prevent disagreeable effects. Therefore, for the profoundest reasons, based upon immutable principles of morality,
NO CIRCUS SHOW
Is identified with this
GRAND AND INSTRUCTIVE EXHIBITION
Which is pre-eminently an institution of intrinsic respectability, recommending itself to the Leading, Refined and Religious Classes for its SUBLIME, INTELLECTUAL AND MORAL TEACHINGS, as well as for its STERLING ELEGANCE!

Teachers of Sabbath and Public Schools, Ministers of the Gospel, Heads of Families, and others who wish to inculcate a love for the Study of Nature's Rare Works, are respectfully notified that the Afternoon is the most appropriate time for a visit. Polite and Intelligent Keepers will answer all questions relative to the Animals and Birds and will take pleasure in imparting information or explaining any matters not understood. Ladies and Children visiting this Menagerie without an escort will receive marked attention from affable Ushers and Guides.

PLANTATION BITTERS.

S. T.—1860—X.

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid, it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates of tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits. For sale by all druggists. v2n12-6m.

THE GREAT MEDICAL DISCOVERY!

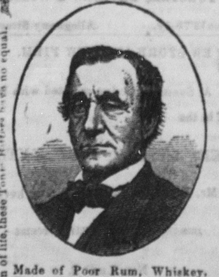
DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS.

More Than 500,000 Persons Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY ARE NOT A VILE

FANCY DRINK,



Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and Refuse Liquors, doctored spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true medicine made from the native Roots and Herbs of California free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the Great Blood Purifier and Life Giving Principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator, of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell.

$100 will be given for an incurable case provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE, and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed.

In Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, these Bitters have no equal. For full directions read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French, and Spanish.
